SEROLOGY AND IMMUNOLOGY

HIV Spot Test (Serum)

HIV Spot Test Non-Reactive Non-Reactive
Immunochromatography

Interpretation:

"This test is a membrane based flow through immunoassay for the detection of antibodies against HIV 1 and HIV 2 in human serum and plasma. Highly purified synthetic peptides of gp 120 and gp 41 (HIV 1) and gp 36 (HIV 2) corresponding to the immunodominant regions of the HIV 1 and HIV 2 are utilized in this test. Some samples show cross reactivity for HIV antibodies.

Following factors are found to cause false positive HIV antibody test results, naturally occurring antibodies, passive immunization, renal disorders, Tuberculosis, Autoimmune diseases, Rheumatoid arthritis, Epstein bar virus, HLA antibodies and other retrovirus.

This is only a screening test and all samples must be confirmed by using HIV Western blot or PCR.

Please note : A non-reactive test does not exclude possibility of an HIV infection.

All reactive samples are tested by 3 different methods as per NACO guidelines.

- This test has been performed after providing pre-test counselling to the patient and obtaining informed consent.
- This test result will be handed over to the patient only and after post test counselling."

Disclaimer:

1. All results released pertain to the specimen as received by the lab for testing and under the assumption that the patient indicated or identified on the bill/test requisition form is the owner of the specimen.
2. Clinical details and consent forms, especially in Genetic testing, histopathology, as well as wherever applicable, are mandatory to be accompanied with the test requisition form. The non-availability of such information may lead to delay in reporting as well as misinterpretation of test results. The lab will not be responsible for any such delays or misinterpretations thereof.
3. Test results are dependent on the quality of the sample received by the lab. In case the samples are preprocessed elsewhere (e.g., paraffin blocks), results may be compromised.
